ABSTRACT

Electronic commerce is a kind of industry where buying and selling of a specific product is performed over electronic systems such as Internet. The purpose of this web page is to bring knowledge to students about how to design an interactive, dynamic and fully structure ecommerce web page using languages such as : Javascript, Html,Php, CSS for styling it and also using sql to build the proper database for containing the necessary information. Database is accessible from the websites. The structure of the webpage provides an easy and convenient way to search for products along with their characteristics and make an order through just a mouse click. The main emphasis lies in contributing with a user-friendly interface for effectively showing the desired view. This project also aims to enhance the culture of performing and interacting through online businesses as it offers a variety of products wherever and whenever you are, without costing you to spend time visiting physically different shops and feeling nervous about not finding the right one.

1.Introduction

1.1 Goal

Shopping has always been considered as a physical process, but nowadays online shopping is adapting fast among us. The goal of this project is to develop a web based interface for online retailers. The system aims to be easy to use and hence make the shopping experience pleasant for the users. The goal of this application is :

- To develop an easy way of use for web-based interface where users can search for desired products(bags and accessories) , view a complete description of the products and order the products.
- A structured web page that provides an easy and convenient way to search for products specific to their needs.
- An stylish design of the website in order to offer a user-friendly “environment” for the clients.
- Drag and Drop feature which would allow the users to add a product to or remove a product from the shopping cart by dragging the product in to the shopping cart or out of the shopping cart.
- A user can have a look of the complete specification of the product along with accurate images.

1.2 Need of our website

There is a variety of commercial Online Shopping websites offering different products prepared to meet the shopping interests of large number of customers. These online marketplaces have thousands of users all around the world, which is a huge benefit compared to physical shopping that is only accessed by local people.

Problem:

- Actual systems are defined with non-interactive environment they provide to the users.

- The use of traditional user interfaces which make continuous post backs to the server where each post back requires to get an answer from the server and to refresh the entire web form to display what it contains. This feature has a disadvantage in online businesses because it causes a delay in displaying the specific results.
- Use of non user -friendly interfaces that are difficult to use from clients of any age.

Solution:

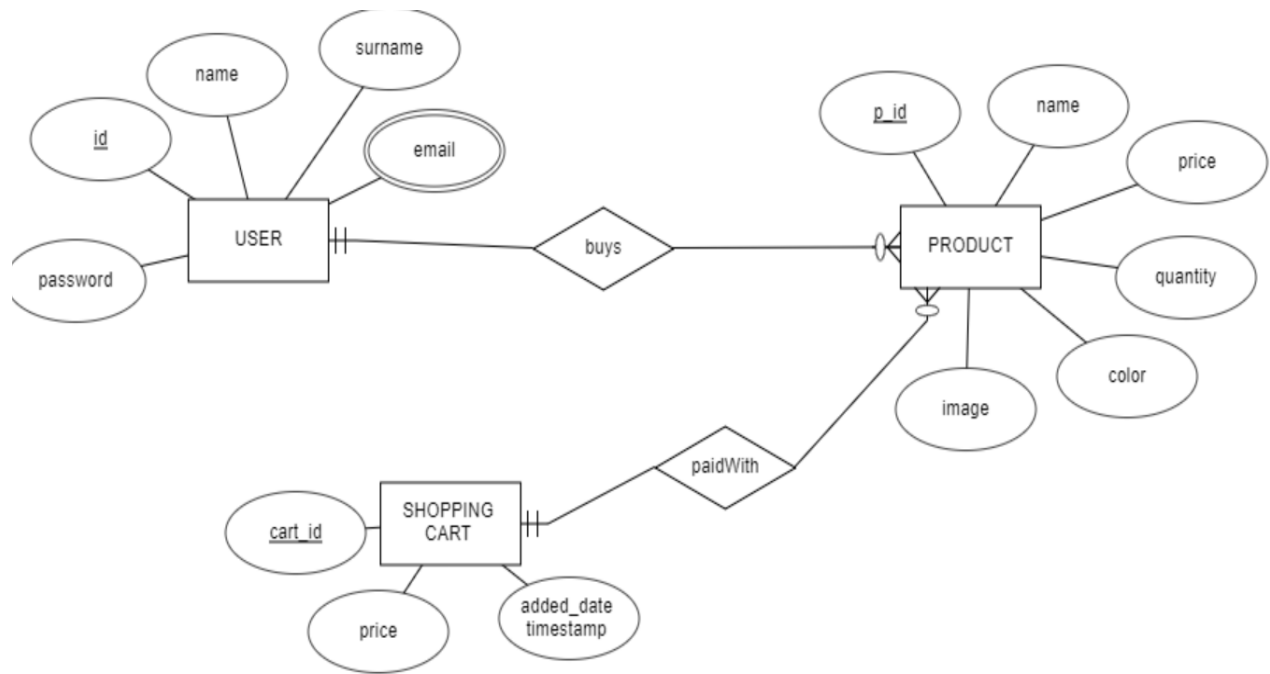

- We create a non-traditional interface of webpages in order not to delay displaying results required by the clients.
- We create a user-friendly interface of website in order to be easily used from all group ages.
- We provide interactive interface through which a user can interact with different areas of web pages properly.
- Provide Remove and Drop feature thereby allowing the user to add products to or remove products from the shopping cart by dragging the products in to or out of the shopping cart.

The system is designed to ask the user (dialogue boxes) if he is sure about the action he will take, such as remove or delete items from the cart. This enhances the communication between the system and the user and makes the user think twice before taking an action.

3.System Analysis

After carefully analyzing the requirements and functionality of the website, we have designed two important diagrams by the end of the analysis process . They are the ERD(entity-relationship diagram) diagram and RS (relational schema) which are the basis for visually and logically concepting our entities and relationships between them.

REQUIREMENTS OF THE PROJECT

-Functional Requirements

Functional requirements are needs related to the technical functionality of the system. Functional requirements state how the users will interact with the application, so the application must be able to comply and be testable. For the online collaboration application, the functional requirements may include descriptions of:

Req#	Requirement	Comments	Priority	Date reviewed	SME reviewed/ approved
R_01	Content to be created and published in the system (i.e., documents, blogs, videos, etc.)	Based on the role and the account type of the user, the app will provide different views.	1	10.06.2022	I Rrucaj A Meta L Lera
R_02	Operations performed by each screen		1	10.06.2022	I Rrucaj A Meta L Lera
R_03	Content approval workflow process		1	10.06.2022	I Rrucaj A Meta L Lera
R_04	Actors are the users who will interact with our product:admin,users.		1	10.06.2022	I Rrucaj A Meta L Lera

-Non-Functional Requirements

Non-functional requirements specify criteria that can be used to judge the operation of a system in particular. These are conditions rather than specific behaviors. While functional requirements define what a system is supposed to do, non-functional requirements define how a system is supposed to be. Non-functional requirements are often called "quality attributes" of a system.

REQUIREMENTS BASED ON THE PAGES OF THE WEBPAGE:

1. Login->Here it is determined the role of the user whether it is a client or an admin.
2. Admin Page-> Here are all the links available only for the admin
3. Women->a section of women products
4. Men-> a section of men products
5. Accessories->accessories is a section with accessories for both genders
6. Account page ->In this page it is also included the shopping cart,where you can see what is inside it and how much they cost.
7. Home page->Many images included to advertise the products, and also links to link all pages with each other.
8. Info page->Details and information about the company.
9. Product info->Detailed information for each product included in the website.
10. Add product page admin->The admin of the page uses this form to add a new product for sale in the website.
11. Page with products, users for admin-page available for users to see available products.

Description of main pages in our project

Our website is designed for online shopping of bags and accessories for women and men. It is styled with light colors for the eye and structured in a user-friendly way in order to be easily used from different group ages. Our site is separated in different mini sections, each for a specific use such as: home, about, women, men, accessories, cart, contact, log-in, register.

If you click on the logo of bags it brings you to the main page(home). Home page is responsible for advertising the company brand and it includes all the buttons for navigating through website.”

Log-in option is used to determine the role of the user whether he is a simple user (client) or admin.

Register option is used if it is your first time using the web page, you have to register to make a purchase and all of the data is stored in database. Women section advertises all bags for women. If the user clicks one product image, he views all the details of the product such as product name , price, color, design ,in-stock quantity and add-to-cart option. The program performs check-in for the stock by specifying the quantity ; zero if there is no product left or more than zero. If the quantity of that specific product in the stock is bigger than zero, the user can add that product to his cart. The maximum number of the products that the user gets from the stock is seven. If that product is not in stock, there is no option for the user to add that product in cart. The same operations are performed in men section .

Accessories section includes products that will be entered in the system from admin and will be updated from admin. Update page profile is responsible for updating the data of the user from the user himself. When updating his profile, the user is asked to confirm the new password. At the moment the user requires to log out, he gets questions (dialogue boxes) if he is sure to log out.(Are you sure to log out?) When trying to log in , the user is required to only enter the email and password. After validation of the data, they are stored in the database. If it is the first time for him to log in, he has to click the button register. If the user is already registered, he cannot register from the beginning because he is present in the website. When the user tries to delete, remove or update he gets a message if he is sure to continue that operation. “Remove” action from the user deletes a specific product from the user’s cart. “Delete all” option deletes all the products added to the user’s cart. When the user updates the quantity of the product , the total price is automatically updated. For example, 1 bag->total price=$285 ; 2 bags->total price=$570 While operating on the cart , the user needs to be registered or logged in first.

Admin can view the products of the website or remove them. He can also view the data of the users. All the products that are present in the database, are represented according to the Database format. Add_product contains a form where admin adds the products in the website. View_product and View_user options are only accessed from the admin.

Database shop_bag

The screenshot shows the phpMyAdmin interface for the 'shop_bag' database. The left sidebar displays a tree view of databases, with 'shop_bag' selected. The main panel shows the 'Structure' tab, listing three tables: 'products', 'shopping_cart', and 'user_form'. Each table has a 'Browse' icon and a 'Structure' icon. Below the table list, there is a 'Create table' form with fields for 'Name' and 'Number of columns' (set to 4).
